

REVIEW RESPONSE · PATH TO LAUNCH

Your review, answered: what we fixed, and what we need from you

Every point you raised on the site has been checked against the code. Five are resolved. This document records what changed, answers your question about the legal work, and sets out the decisions and access we need to take the site live.

Dear Sir,

Thank you for going through the website so carefully. Your findings were accurate and specific, and one of them uncovered a genuine scoring error in the diagnostic that we would not have found from reading the code alone.

Below is what we changed, in the order you raised it. Where you were right, we say so. In one case the behaviour you saw was actually correct, and we explain why, because it matters that you can trust the diagnostic in front of a client.

We have also set out, in full, everything still standing between the site as it is today and a live, production-grade website taking real payments. Most of it is now waiting on decisions or access that only you can give.

At a glance

Six findings reviewed, five resolved this week. The remaining work is dominated by items we cannot start without you.

FINDINGS RESOLVED

DECISIONS AND ITEMS FROM YOU

6

BUILD TASKS REMAINING

Each item below was traced to its cause in the code rather than patched at the surface, so the same fault cannot return by a different route.

R1

FIXED

The stated time commitment was wrong

You were right that the figures did not add up. The site now states the total in one place and every other mention reads from it: about two and a half hours a week — roughly 90 minutes of lessons plus one 60–75 minute live session. There is no longer anywhere that quotes 90 minutes on its own.

R2

FIXED

Question 3 of the diagnostic scored backwards

You were right. The statement read “Growth in sales makes me more comfortable about cash, not less” and awarded full marks for agreeing — when believing that is precisely the misconception Week 1 exists to correct. It now reads: “I understand why a fast-growing month can leave less cash in the bank, not more.”

R3

NO CHANGE NEEDED

Scoring 4 out of 20 by answering “No” throughout

This one is working as intended. Two statements are deliberately negative — “We have delayed a supplier payment to manage cash” and “A tax, VAT or annual payment has caught us out.” Answering “No” to those is good news, so each earns two marks. Four out of twenty is the diagnostic working, not failing.

R4

FIXED

Negatively worded questions needed systematic testing

We audited all ten statements; question 3 was the only one scored the wrong way. We then changed how questions are defined so the scoring direction must be stated explicitly for every one — the site now refuses to build if anyone adds a question without declaring which answer is the good one. Results of the full test are overleaf.

R5

FIXED

Buttons promised payment, the page offered the waitlist

Not a wording problem. The buttons carried fixed text while the enrolment page separately checked whether card payment was switched on. Both now read from the same fact. While payment is off, every primary button reads “Join the founding-cohort waitlist” and the enrolment page is headed “Enrolment opens shortly”. The day payment goes live they change back on their own, with nothing for anyone to remember to edit.

R6

FIXED

“The same Excel model Carl uses” overclaimed

Now reads “The Excel model Carl builds with fractional CFO clients”, and the templates section says they are built from the models you use. That reflects what you told us: different models for different industries.

CONDITION APPLIES

Confidentiality answered with an absolute “Yes”

The flat “Yes” is gone. The answer now says you choose what you share, that every participant accepts a confidentiality obligation in the course terms, and points to the privacy policy for how information is held. We have deliberately said nothing about recordings, because you flagged that policy as still to be agreed. The condition: that answer now refers to an obligation in the course terms, and those terms are not yet written. It must not go live in front of customers until they are.

After the fix we ran the scoring through every uniform answer pattern, and separately confirmed that each of the ten questions moves the score in the direction it claims.

DIAGNOSTIC SCORING AFTER THE CORRECTION

ANSWERS GIVEN	SCORE	RESULT SHOWN
"No" to everything	4 / 20	Limited visibility
"Partly" to everything	10 / 20	Partial visibility
"Yes" to everything	16 / 20	Good visibility
The ideal answer to each	20 / 20	Good visibility
The worst answer to each	0 / 20	Limited visibility

Why "Yes" to everything does not score full marks

Answering "Yes" to every statement includes agreeing that you have delayed a supplier payment to manage cash, and that a tax bill has caught you out in the last year. Those are not signs of good cash control, so the score stops at 16. Only the genuinely ideal set of answers reaches 20.

You asked: “Are you waiting on me for this?” Yes. The five documents are built as structured pages with every required section in place, but the wording has to come from you and your adviser. They currently carry a visible “not in force” notice and are hidden from search engines, so nothing unreviewed can quietly go live.

☐ Selling entity, governing law and jurisdiction

Which company sells the course, and whose law governs the contract.

☐ VAT treatment

Is the entity VAT-registered? Is the price inclusive or exclusive? Does it differ for buyers outside the UAE? This must be stated at checkout.

☐ Refund and cancellation terms

The site currently shows a placeholder: full refund if you withdraw more than seven days before the start date. The agreed figure appears in four places and must match everywhere.

☐ The group confidentiality obligation

The wording participants agree to, which the FAQ answer now refers to.

☐ The recording policy

Are sessions recorded, who may see the recordings, and for how long.

☐ Minimum cohort size

Is there a number below which the course will not run, and what happens to those who have paid.

☐ Access period after the cohort ends

How long participants keep the materials.

Yes, it can be built. Two observations before the decisions.

Your USD prices are the current AED prices

AED 2,000 is USD 545 and you proposed 550. AED 2,500 is USD 681 and you proposed 695. The founding tiers are therefore the same money expressed in a different currency, not a price increase — which makes the change low risk.

The premium tier is described three different ways in your message: as “5 private CFO sessions”; then as a 60-minute diagnostic plus a forecast review plus a 45-minute implementation session plus priority email; and then as “plus 5 private group sessions”. We cannot build or sell it until it is one thing.

☐ Currency

Move everything to USD, or keep AED and display USD alongside? This affects VAT and invoicing, so your accountant should see the question.

☐ Premium price

USD 1,495 or 1,995? A range cannot be charged.

☐ Premium contents

Which of the three descriptions above is the correct one?

☐ Basic plan at USD 450

Confirmed it opens only after the first cohort finishes, when the cohort price is 995? At 695 it would undercut the live programme by too little.

☐ Cohort size

Still 15 places, with the first five at the founding price?

One sequencing note: the tiered structure has to follow the database work in section 08, because each sale needs to record which product was bought.

The site already captures diagnostic results, waitlist sign-ups and enrolments, storing the consent wording and timestamp with each, so the list is compliant from day one. What it cannot yet do is send anything. There are two jobs here, and they need different tools.

Two jobs, two tools

Automatic emails are sent by the website without you: receipts, welcome and joining instructions, session reminders, refund confirmations. They must arrive within seconds and must never be filtered as marketing.

Broadcasts are sent by you, when you choose: cohort announcements, the waitlist nurture sequence, anything to the diagnostic list. You need a screen you can write and send from yourself, without us.

To set both up, we need the following from you.

☐ The sending address

For example hello@cashflowmastery.co, or your existing carl@independentadvisors.ai. Also the name it should appear from, and where replies should go.

☐ The domain, and access to its DNS settings

Confirmation of who owns cashflowmastery.co, with the registrar login or an introduction to whoever holds it. We need to add three records proving the mail is genuinely from you. Without them your emails land in spam — the most common reason course emails are never seen. This is the one item here we cannot work around.

☐ Which provider, and whose account pays

We recommend Resend for automatic emails (free to 3,000 a month) and MailerLite for broadcasts (free to 1,000 subscribers). Both can sit on your account, so the list stays yours.

☐ A postal address for the footer of marketing emails

Legally expected in most markets and required by both providers.

☐ Who writes the emails

We build and connect them. We need wording for the welcome, joining instructions and reminders — or your approval to draft them in your voice for your review.

The payment system itself is built and tested. What follows is the remainder, grouped by who each item waits on. Nothing in this first group can be worked around.

WAITING ON YOU — THESE BLOCK LAUNCH

REF	ITEM	WHY IT BLOCKS
B1	Cohort start date Plus the four session dates and times.	Must be shown at checkout before anyone pays
B2	VAT treatment From your accountant.	Must be stated at checkout
B3	Refund policy Legally reviewed.	Appears at checkout and in three other places
B4	The five legal documents Terms, refunds, privacy, cookies, disclaimer.	The course cannot be sold without them
B5	The domain and its DNS access	Needed for both the web address and email
B6	The pricing decisions in section 04	Determines what we build next

These do not block the site going live, but each is needed before the first participants arrive.

WAITING ON YOU — BEFORE THE COHORT, NOT BEFORE LAUNCH

REF	ITEM	NOTE
C1	The real logo SVG preferred, or PNG at 512px or larger, in light and dark versions.	A placeholder mark is in use; we did not want to invent a brand you had not approved
C2	Welcome and closing videos Plus a decision on video hosting.	We recommend Vimeo Pro, about USD 20 a month, with private links
C3	The course materials Final workbook, Cash-Cycle Map, diagnostic worksheet, assumptions checklist, weekly meeting agenda, 30-day plan.	Needed before participants arrive
C4	Support inbox Currently carl@independentadvisors.ai.	Confirm, or set up a dedicated course inbox
C5	Stripe currency conversion Stripe is currently offering overseas buyers their own currency with a 4% fee added.	A switch in your Stripe settings; it interacts with the USD question

Each of these is ours to do, and each waits on something above. They are listed in the order we would take them.

FLARENET — ONCE THE ITEMS ABOVE ARE UNBLOCKED

REF	TASK	NOTE
F1	Move records to a proper database	The current storage does not survive on live hosting. This is first, and nothing can be tested online until it is done
F2	Connect the email provider Then build the automatic emails.	Follows the DNS access in section 05
F3	Analytics and cookie consent banner	Both depend on the approved cookie notice
F4	Switch Stripe to live keys Live keys replace test keys, and payment notifications point at the real domain.	Roughly an hour once the domain exists
F5	Social sharing image	So links shared on WhatsApp and LinkedIn preview properly
F6	Final accessibility and performance pass	Across phone, tablet and desktop before launch

If we had only three of the items above, these three would move the project furthest.

01

UNBLOCKS EMAIL ENTIRELY

DNS access, or the contact who holds it

This can proceed in parallel with everything else, and it has the longest tail: mail reputation takes days to settle once the records are in place.

02

UNBLOCKS THE BUILD

The five pricing decisions in section 04

Particularly which of the three descriptions of the premium tier is the correct one.

03

LONGEST LEAD TIME

The legal documents started with your adviser

These take the longest of anything outstanding, and three other items depend on their wording.

The payment system is built and tested

We ran a full test transaction this week and confirmed that a place is granted only by a payment Stripe itself has verified; that a failed or unpaid attempt grants nothing; that a duplicate notification cannot double-book a place; and that a partial refund keeps the place while a full refund releases it back into availability.

Sir, the site itself is in good shape, and your review made it better. What remains is mostly decisions and access rather than building — and the three items in section 09 would unlock most of the rest. We would be glad to walk through any of this on a short call, or to speak directly with your adviser or whoever manages your domain.
